Brief Introduction:

It's a peptidomimetic, which is a small protein-like chain that is designed to imitate a peptide, converted into an experimental proapoptotic product that is used for cellular death. Cell death is when a biological cell ceases to perform its functions. That may be due to the natural process cells that are old dying and the new ones replacing them, or it may result from factors like localised injury, disease, or organism death of which these cells are part.

FTPP (Adipotide) purpose is contributing to weight loss. The substance has exhibited favourable outcomes in tests; the main feature of adipotide is its property of fast loss of weight.
