Brief Introduction:

LGD-4033 is a selective androgen receptor modulator (SARMS), and a novel non-steroidal oral SARM that binds to AR with high affinity (K_i of ~1 nM) and selectivity. It's in a class of androgen receptor (AR) ligands that is tissue selective, developed to treat muscle wasting associated with cancer, acute and chronic illness and age-related muscle loss. LGD-4033 is expected to produce the therapeutic benefits of testosterone with improved safety, tolerability and patient acceptance due to tissue-selective mechanism of action and an oral route of administration.

Existing performed clinical trials unequivocally confirmed the high anabolic activity of LGD-4033 and its unique ability to build new muscle growth and increase strength. In a test involving 116 volunteers, a dose of just 1 mg of LGD-4033 per day produced a visible improvement in muscle mass and quality, strength and a decrease in body fat percentage in men who took it for 21 days. In another test, it was shown that even a relatively high dose of 22 mg LGD-4033 administered daily for several weeks did not cause any adverse effects, health problems or stomach problems. In addition to the increase in muscle mass and strength, the use of LGD-4033 in men also brought other beneficial effects, in the form of very good regeneration, reduction of body fat, overall improvement of health and a feeling of overall well-being and vitality.

Function:

1. LGD 4033 can increase muscle mass. The clear main benefit of adding Anabolicum is its ability to increase lean muscle mass while swelling without increasing fat.
2. LGD 4033 can improve strength and endurance. One key study measured participants' speed and strength in climbing stairs as an indicator of muscle strength and endurance. The results of the 21-day study showed that participants' stair climbing speed and strength improved as a result of LGD 4033.
3. LGD 4033 selectively targets muscle and bone tissue. As a true SARM, LGD is almost exclusively targeted at muscle and bone tissue, which is why it is being researched to prevent and treat cachexia, sarcoma, osteoporosis and recovering from hip fractures in the elderly.
4. LGD 4033 can increase fat loss. LGD has amazing anti-catabolic activity, meaning it prevents hard-won muscles from collapsing. This is why some users gain lean body mass even in the absence of calories.
5. LGD 4033 can improve mental health. Many users reported feeling positive, strong, and "alpha" when taking Ligandrol. This state of mental health and a mild sense of what some call "aggression" can help boost their fitness in the gym.
6. LGD 4033 can help patients recover from hip fractures. It helps increase bone mineral density as well as lean muscle mass without the side effects of traditional treatments such as steroids, making it a promising treatment for other neglected populations.
