Product Description

What is CAS 946870-92-4 Anti Aging Peptide IGF-1 LR3 for Bodybuilding Muscle Growth?

Long(R3)-IGF-I is a synthetic variant of Insulin-Like Growth Factor-1 (IGF-I), a peptide hormone found naturally in the human body. It is a close derivative of this natural protein. The name "Long R3" actually describes how the original IGF-I protein has been modified. It is made by extending the IGF-I protein with a chain of 13 amino acids, and substituting an arginine at the 3rd position.

This new synthetic form of IGF-I seems to retain much of the hormone's original biological activity. It binds and activates the IGF-I receptor with similar affinity, and imparts a similar anabolic effect. However, it also differs by displaying a significantly longer half-life, and higher resistance to binding proteins, in comparison. As a result, milligram for milligram, Long(R3)-IGF-I is estimated to be approximately 2.5 to 3 times more potent than natural IGF-I. In the fitness community, this substance is most commonly used to support increases in muscle mass.
