Brief Introduction of Bremelanotide PT141

PT-141 is a peptide developed based on the Melanotan 2, which is known to be a synthetically produced variant of a peptide hormone. This is naturally produced in the body and stimulates melanogenesis, also known as the alpha-melanocyte-stimulating hormone.

Studies have shown that the PT-141 provides libido-enhancing effects through activating the melanocortin receptors MC1R and the MC4R without tanning your skin. This is also a potential remedy for the treatment of female sexual dysfunction and male erectile dysfunction.

Studies have shown that the PT-141 does not act on your vascular system, but may increase your sexual desire through the nervous system.

The PT-141 is also known as the Bremelanotide, a peptide hormone that activates the melanocortin receptors. The PT-141 binds the melanocortin 4 receptor (MC-4R) and the MC-4R, which produces central arousal in the central nervous system, influencing the sexual behavior. This peptide hormone also has been seen by research to have a substantial effect on libido, which creates sexual arousal in both men and women.

With proper dosing, the PT-141 can act within 30 minutes of taking the troche, and effects of this peptide hormone may be felt up to 12 hours from the moment it was administered. The results are known to last for up to three days. But, it gradually diminishes each day.

Therefore, the PT-141 is a new innovative peptide hormone working for both men and women to be able to improve sexual function. The PT 141 works directly through the nervous system to increase desire, arousal, and satisfaction with sex. The PT 141 gives you the motivation and the desire to increase blood flow in the vagina and the clitoris, which returns the feeling of intimacy and passion.
