Brief Introduction:

Melatonin is the all-natural nightcap. It's secreted by the pineal gland, a pea-size structure at the center of the brain, as our eyes register the fall of darkness. At night, melatonin is produced to help our bodies regulate our sleep-wake cycles. The amount of melatonin produced by our body seems to lessen as we get older. Scientists believe this may be why young people have less problem sleeping than older people.

Melatonin is a substance secreted by the pineal gland of human brain, which plays an important role in maintaining the normal circadian rhythm and sleep rhythm of human body. If there is a melatonin secretion disorder, may lead to the reversal of sleep time and poor sleep quality, insomnia and other conditions. Melatonin is an excellent treatment, especially for people with jet lag and sleep disturbances, to help restore normal sleep rhythms. But if melatonin use time is too long, is likely to become dependent, the possible exogenous melatonin supplements, inhibition of endogenous production of melatonin, lead to once stop drug, due to lack of melatonin, insomnia and sleep quality worse, so melatonin is not recommended for use for a long time, as a drug for the treatment of insomnia.
