Brief Introduction:

The body produces serotonin through a series of chemical steps, starting with the amino acid L-tryptophan. One of the chemicals on the way from transforming L-tryptophan to serotonin is 5-HTP.

The chemical was only available via prescription until 1995, when the United States Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approved it as an over-the-counter (OTC) supplement.

Manufacturers derive the supplement from the seeds of Griffonia simplicifolia, which is an African plant. The supplement does not naturally occur in foods.

Some people believe that taking 5-HTP can increase the amount of serotonin in the body. Doctors have previously linked a lack of serotonin with a number of medical conditions, including depression.

As a result, some doctors recommend taking 5-HTP along with regular medications for certain conditions.

Application:

1. 5-HTP and Insomnia. The relationship between 5-HTP and sleep (good sleep) has been well-established. In fact, 5-HTP supplement is seen to be better than melatonin in promoting good sleep and alleviating insomnia. It is able to increase the quality of sleep without hangover or drugged feelings which are usually present with sleeping pills and sedatives.
2. 5-HTP and Depression. Many people have already enjoyed the benefits of 5-HTP against depression. It is reportedly as effective as anti-depressants in the treatment of mild to moderate depression.
3. 5-HTP and Anxiety. Low serotonin levels can lead to abnormal anxiety. With 5-HTP, there is a good chance for serotonin to go back to its natural level, so you can feel normal again.

Function:

1. Griffonia Seed Extract is anti-depressant and mood enhancer.

2. Griffonia Seed Extract regulates brain serotonin levels.
3. Griffonia Seed Extract appetite suppressant for weight loss.
4. Griffonia Seed Extract sleep aid for insomnia treatment.
5. Griffonia Seed Extract is beneficial for depression treatment.
6. Griffonia Seed Extract migraine Headaches and Fibromyalgia.
