Brief Introduction of hgh fragment peptide

HGH Frag 176-191 is made of the last 16 amino acids on GH's long 191 amino acid sequence. it is a spliced variant of native human growth hormone. Specifically, it is made of the last 16 amino acids on GH's long 191 amino acid sequence. This fragment seems to retain some (not all) of the biological activity of growth hormone. On the one hand, the compound is no longer able to bind with the cellular GH receptor. As such, it does not elevate serum IGF-1, nor appear to have anabolic effects. On the other, it may still have distinct lipolytic (fat loss) properties. A drug like this could be applicable in situations where fat loss is desired, but GH's wider spectrum of anabolic effects (and potential side effects) is not. In the fitness community, this substance is used exclusively for fat loss.

Function & Usage of hgh fragment peptide

The GH fragment 176-191 stimulates lipolysis and inhibits lipogenesis both en vivo/en vitro.

Fragment 176/191 has shown no effect on growth or resistance, unlike the full GH molecule. This is the newest, most powerful GH fragment on the market. Studies have shown sustained fatloss, aimed directly at adipose tissue.

It has been shown that the fat-reducing effects of GH appear to be controlled by a small analog region of the C-terminus end of the GH molecule. This region consists of amino acids 176/191, thus the name. This peptide fragment works by mimicking the way natural hGH regulates fat metabolism but without the adverse effects on blood sugar that is seen with unmodified HGH.
