Discription of H.G.H. 191aa somatropin

H.G.H. is a polypeptide synthesized, stored and secreted by growth hormone cells in the anterior pituitary. H.G.H. is a stress hormone that increases glucose and free fatty acid levels. In bodybuilding, it is widely used for muscle building and weight loss because GH continuously produces the hormones needed for exercise, helping bodybuilders achieve higher levels of muscle growth.

It also stimulates the production of IGF-1. H.G.H. is prescribed medically to treat growth disorders in children and growth hormone deficiency in adults. GH stimulates protein synthesis and increases fat breakdown to provide energy for tissue growth.

It is great for building muscle, losing fat, improving sleep, reducing wrinkles, and making hair and nails grow faster. It is also known as the fountain of youth, a natural human hormone supplement.
