Discription of somapure 191aa human growth hormone?

- 1.The human body is made of anterior pituitary growth hormone (hGH). Growth hormone (GH) contains a hormone secreted by eosinophilic granule-secreting cells and consists of a 191 amino acid peptide.
2. This product is secreted by recombinant e genotype. When using E. coli expression technology to produce recombinant human growth hormone (rhGH), the amino acid content and sequence of growth hormone are completely identical to those of human.
3. HGH, once derived from human cadavers, is now produced under strictly controlled conditions by recombinant DNA technology.This process has undergone extended safety trials, and HGH is considered suitable for use in humans.
