Tb500 Peptides is a protein that in humans is encoded by the TMSB4X gene. Thymosin- β 4 is a major cellular constituent in many tissues. Its intracellular concentration may reach as high as 0.5 mM. Following Thymosin α 1, β 4 was the second of the biologically active peptides from Thymosin Fraction 5 to be completely sequenced and synthesized.

Tb-500 thymosin β -4 is a peptide fragment hormone used to treat various muscle injuries or caused by inflammation. There is very little official data on the product; However, it has always been the hormone used in horse racing. Tb-500, though synthetic, acts (loosely) as a synthetic form of thymosin β -4 (TB-4). Tb-500 is often confused with TB-4, a short peptide fragment or fragment of the naturally occurring thymosin β -4 hormone (TB-4).

Function of Tb500 Peptides:

1. Thymic glands and various local cells in the human body produce thymic β -4(TB-4), which is present in extremely high concentrations in the cytoplasm of wounds. Tb-500 has a healing part of the TB-4 sequence (refer to the entire end of growth hormone fragment for action extraction), and the main purpose of TB-500 is its ability to promote upregulation of cells in the body. Upregulation increases cell sensitivity to action, especially in proteins such as actin. This action helps regulate inflammation in the injured part of the body and provides new access to blood vessels.
2. Tb-500 has a very low molecular weight, enabling it to have a high level of mobility in the body. In short, the TB-500 can be applied to the whole body, reaching almost any location. The TB-500 doesn't have to be applied to the area of injury; its effects can be applied to the whole body, no matter where the injection site is.
3. In the world of anabolic metabolism, TB-500 is mostly not used for muscle growth, fat loss, and improved athletic performance. It is mostly used to promote healing, especially for body wounds or joint injuries. Tb-500 can be used to treat muscle tear or strain, tendon inflammation, and even skin injury. The peptide does not cause immediate healing of the injured area. If the muscle tears, it tears, but in many cases using the TB-500 speeds up the healing process.
4. For chronic injuries, such as stress on the joints caused by bodybuilders working hard in the gym every day, THE TB-500 can provide excellent protection. The effects of TB-500 can also promote hair growth, especially hair loss caused by alopecia, which may be reversed by tB-500 use.
