Brief Introduction of Selank 5mg

Selank is a nootropic, anxiolytic peptide, improvement in learning, memory, cognition, depression, weakness and overall energy. In other words, it fits into the category of nootropics as well as being a peptide. For this specific compound, individuals commonly use it to inhibit anxiety.

It was developed by the Institute of Genetics of the Russian Academy of Science. Previously it was known under the name TP-7. It is a combination of both the sequence of tuftsin and a stabilizing compound

Aside from its ability to aid the immune system, it is also used as an antidepressant and antiasthenic. You're probably thinking, I know what depression is but what is asthenia? This is a disorder in which a person experiences a physical weakness or an overall lack of energy
