Brief Introduction of Selank for sale

Selank is a short, synthetic peptide composed of seven amino acids (hence, identifies as the heptapeptide).

Selank is analogous to the naturally occurring peptide called Tuftsin (5), which is a natural tetrapeptide that is involved in several biological functions that regulate the body's immune system.

Selank acts as a better nootropic agent because of its above mentioned close resemblance to the body's own peptide Tuftsin. It therefore increases the user's focus and general concentration ability, reduces mental fatigue, sharpens mental acuity and increases the memory capacity for learning processes. The first vocal effect is usually the stabilization of mood, as well as a greatly improved general well-being.

In addition to the effects mentioned Selank also helps to a much more powerful immune system. This is noticeable, for example, in the fact that users become much less likely to become ill, even if they are exposed to extremely contagious influenza infections in their environment.

One of the mechanisms by which Selank gains its benefits is by increasing serotonin, a neurotransmitter most commonly known to regulate mood, but also has an effect on appetite and sleep. A lack of serotonin can lead to depression, loss of appetite and insomnia. Selank also has significant modulatory effects on the body's natural opioid system, leading to an increase in endorphin levels and subsequent improvement in well-being and overall mood. In addition, Selank is working to increase dopamine levels, another neurotransmitter that is directly involved in many important functions such as cognition, motivation, mood, memory, sleep, and learning.

Dosage Of Selank for sale

The application period is between 10 days and the end of the open, depending on the purpose of the user.

The doses administered subcutaneously ranged from 250mcg to 3mg, depending on the area applied. For example, if you use Selank to prepare for a test or book an appointment with glassware, you should use a 250-500mcg dose to drive. Doses above this limit are used to combat depression, severe anxiety and so on.

Low dose, 250-500 MCG, one injection every morning is sufficient. High dose should be given twice in the morning and evening.

Side effects Selank for sale

At doses between 250-500mcg no side effects are known. Due to the very mild toxicity of Selank, a higher dosage can lead to Fatigue.
