Brief Introduction of PT141

PT-141 is a peptide developed based on the Melanotan 2, which is known to be a synthetically produced variant of a peptide hormone. This is naturally produced in the body and stimulates melanogenesis, also known as the alpha-melanocyte-stimulating hormone.

PT 141, also known as Validamine, is a synthetic peptide that is used to treat sexual dysfunction in men and women. It was originally intended to darken skin pigmentation and induce tanning. However, during the initial testing, patients noted a pleasant side effect - that it caused increased sexual arousal.

It is used to treat women who have not gone through menopause who have low sexual desire and are concerned about it. Validamine should not be used to treat low sexual desire caused by a medical or mental/mood disorder, problems in a relationship, or the effects of other drugs.

With proper dosing, the PT-141 can act within 30 minutes of taking the troche, and effects of this peptide hormone may be felt up to 12 hours from the moment it was administered. The results are known to last for up to three days. But, it gradually diminishes each day.

Therefore, the PT-141 is a new innovative peptide hormone working for both men and women to be able to improve sexual function. The PT 141 works directly through the nervous system to increase desire, arousal, and satisfaction with sex. The PT 141 gives you the motivation and the desire to increase blood flow in the vagina and the clitoris, which returns the feeling of intimacy and passion.
