What is Ipamorelin

Ipamorelin is a growth hormone releasing peptide (GHRP) that stimulates the release of growth hormones from the anterior pituitary gland. This is the pea-sized gland found at the base of the brain that is responsible for regulating an organism's endocrine-based functionality. The various functions of the pituitary gland include:

- Regulation of bodily growth
- Regulation of thyroid gland function
- Pain relief
- Regulation of temperature

Research has shown that Ipamorelin injection does not decrease your body's natural production of growth hormone. This means your own growth hormones work with the peptide to maximize muscle growth benefits. Ipamorelin has also been shown to reduce feelings of hunger, which helps when it comes to weight loss. Not only does this Ipamorelin build muscle, it also helps you lose unwanted fat.

How Does Ipamorelin Work?

Once Ipamorelin injections are administered, a selective pulse is sent to the brain that stimulates the hypothalamus and anterior pituitary to release growth hormones. Once this pulse is sent, the cells go directly to the muscle to support development while staying clear of any possible bone or cartilage growth. When Ipamorelin peptides release growth hormones, the cells go straight to the muscle to support its larger development and seem to steer clear of any possible bone or cartilage distortions.

Ipamorelin injections will increase cell synthesis, elevate secretion levels of insulin from pancreatic tissue, and increase ghrelin in the stomach—which helps release GH and control hunger. All of these functions work to promote fat loss, shuttling of nutrients, and building clean muscle mass.
