Description Of Tb500

TB-500 is one of the best peptides for weightlifting and here at Paradigm Peptides, we're proud to carry two different size vials to help not only meet the bodybuilding needs of our customers, but to provide them with the options that they need to see the gains that they expect.

TB-500 is used for the purpose of research. It is known to mimic part of the larger peptide known and Thymosin Beta 4. However, because TB-500 has a much smaller molecular weight it is easier to use than the full Thymosin Beta 4 peptide. This synthetic peptide has a long list of benefits and no known side effects which makes it the ideal peptide for those seeking muscle gain and a quick healing time. TB-500 works by building new blood vessels and muscle tissue fiber while assisting in new cell migration and blood cell reproduction. It works based on its ability to upregulate cell building proteins such as actin. In both powder form and in reconstituted form, TB-500 should be stored between thirty-six- and forty-six-degrees Fahrenheit for optimal use.

Effects Of TB-500:

In the world of performance improvement, TB-500 does not mean to be used for bulk, cutting, weight loss or increased strength. This is a peptide hormone designed to promote healing, especially in physical or injured areas. TB-500 can be used to treat muscle tear or strain, tendon inflammation and even skin damage. The peptide does not cause immediate healing in the injured area. If the muscle is torn, it will be torn, but in many cases, the use of TB-500 will accelerate the healing process. For the vomiting injury, those who do not let the individual leave the gym but the slow progress of the person, may provide the edge he needs, continue to train without losing.

The role of TB-500 is also associated with hair growth, especially from male-type alopecia caused by hair loss reversal. However, there is no official data exists, how important this effect is, how much scientific facts are still very questionable. The only hair growth data is anecdotes.

Benefits OF TB 500:

- Increased strength through muscle growth
- Improved endurance
- Speeds up wound healing
- Reduces acute or chronic pain or inflammation
- Increased flexibility
- Increased hair growth

There have been no known negative side effects that have been reported.
