What Is GHRP 2

GHRPs are a small family of peptides acting at the pituitary and the hypothalamus to release GHRP-2 (GH) through the activation of a specific, G protein-coupled receptor. They were discovered 20 years ago as synthetic metenkephalin- derived oligopeptides (Synthetic tissue derived amino acids). Although it has no structural homology with GHRP-2 Releasing Hormone (GHRH), in clinical studies GHRP-2 demonstrated action on the pituitary to release Human GHRP-2 (GH). Similar results were effective when GHRP-2 was administered sublingual. Clinical studies showed the most potent GHRP being the hexapeptide GHRP-2. GHRP-2 Releasing Peptide 2(GHRP2) substantially stimulates the pituitary gland's increased natural production of the body's own endogenous human GHRP-2 (GH). This therapy consists of daily periodic sub-lingual dosing. GHRP-2 releasing peptide 2, GHRP2 has shown on it's own to robustly increase IGF-1 levels, and even greater results occurred when used with GHRP-2 Releasing Hormone (GHRH) to which also stimulates the pituitary gland to produce increased natural secretion of human GHRP-2. This also boosts the hypothalamus function as well.
