Our Product Introduction

Product Description

Discription of 191AA Somatropin

1. Human is anterior pituitary growth hormone (hGH), growth hormone (GH) contains eosinophilic granular secretory cells secreted by the hormone composed of 191 amino acid peptides.

2. This product is secreted by recombinant e genotype. When using Escherichia coli expression technology to produce recombinant human growth hormone (rhGH), the amino acid content and sequence of growth hormone are completely consistent with those of human.

3. This product is a complex in Escherichia coli (ec with us: oli). Synthesized from prehormone. Prohormones are growth hormones naturally present in bacteria that are linked to a signal peptide. The hormone divides in the bacterial cell wall, and the final product, which is exactly the same as the natural growth hormone, enters the intermembrane space of the cell wall before release, and then destroys the cell wall to collect, only the intact cell wall, ensuring that the final product has little bacterial protein contamination.
